

SOFT COAL MEN ARE TO MAKE A PROTEST

ASK CHANGES IN CONTRACT FOR THE COMING YEARS FROM OPERATORS.

A TWO WEEKS LAY-OFF

Will Occur Just After the First of April—Not a Strike But Merely a Protest Against Conditions.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 20.—All the mines in the bituminous coal fields of western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois will shut down on April 1, and 200,000 miners will quit for at least two weeks, according to the operators and miners' union officials who conferred here today.

Not a Strike.

It will not be a strike they say, but merely a suspension of work pending negotiations for a two year wage scale to take the place of the present one which expires March 31. The conference was convened by John P. White, president of the United Mine Workers of America, but after a brief session it adjourned until 2:30 this afternoon, because of the non-arrival of some of the delegates.

Miners' Stand.

Mr. White announced the miners' delegates had come to meet the operators on friendly terms but they intended to adhere to their demands. The miners demand a ten percent increase for day wages and the mining of all coal on a lump basis. Seven hours instead of eight hours a day five hours on Saturday instead of eight. Pay every week instead of every two weeks.

Is Excessive.

The operators headed by W. K. Fields, of Pittsburgh; E. A. Cole, of Columbus, Ohio; H. H. Penna of Terra Haute, Ind., and H. M. Taylor of Chicago, representing state organizations informed Mr. White that the demands equaled a 20 per cent increase and was excessive.

Difference in Wages.

A difference of 20 cents a ton in wages sought and that offered at the joint conference of the mine owners and mine workers here today. The mine workers want $1.05 for coal they get out while the operators meet them with a counter proposal that they will give but 85 cents, which is ten cents less than the miners received in an agreement which expires on March 31st. Announcement was made by the operators last evening that they had unanimously agreed to stand by their demand for a ten cent reduction.

Depends on Conference.

Whether it be a general strike of miners in the bituminous fields on April 1 depends upon the success or failure of the joint conference of the operators and United Mine Workers, which met at the Hollenden Hotel in this city to resume negotiations looking to a new agreement to go into effect when the present agreement expires on the last day of this month.

Hope Prevalent.

Both sides admit that the prospects for an amicable settlement of the existing differences are not very bright. The miners declare their intention to stand firm in their demand for a seven-hour day, five hours on Saturday, with full pay, and an average advance of 10 per cent on the wage scale. The mine owners assert that the demands of the miners are impossible.

Operators There.

The parties to the present conference represent the operators and miners in the soft coal fields of western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. But any agreement reached undoubtedly would be used as the basis for similar agreements in Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas, and Oklahoma, comprising the Southwest-ern Territory, and Michigan, West Virginia, Kentucky and Iowa.

Not Alarming.

The prospect of a strike in the soft coal fields, while serious enough in its consequences, is not regarded with the same alarm in industrial circles as is the possibility of a similar stoppage of the anthracite mines. The principal reason for this is that the soft coal supply is not limited to a small territory as in the case of the supply of anthracite. A dozen states, more or less, produce soft coal in considerable quantities, and to maintain a strike in all of them at once would be a stupendous undertaking.

Not Unlikely.

Then in the fields, particularly that of West Virginia, are not strictly utilized. The railroads and other industries dependent upon the bituminous supply always figure that enough soft coal can be produced somehow to supply their needs. They remember that there were strikes in the soft coal regions of several states last year at the same time, but no serious shortage of fuel resulted. The possibility of general strikes being declared simultaneously in the anthracite and bituminous fields on April 1 is considered the most threatening feature of the situation.

ICE DAM BROKEN AND FLOATS DOWN MISSISSIPPI

Keokuk, Iowa, March 20.—A telephone message received here says the dam at Warsaw, Mo., burst this morning under the pressure of ice which began to move southward in the Mississippi river.

Lawrence, Mo., March 20.—A strike of 400 workmen at the Wool Worsted Mills of the American Woolen Company today necessitated the summoning of national guardsmen to keep the large crowds on the streets near the plant, moving.

BANDITS PURSUED BY LARGE ARMED POSSE

Gang Which Held up No. 4 Being Chased by Large Posse—Especially by the Police.

Carlinville, Ill., March 20.—Sheriff McHenry, of Alcorn county, at the head of a large posse has gone in pursuit of the highwaymen who last night held up north bound Mobile and Ohio train No. 4, dynamited the safe in the express car and escaped with booty the amount of which has not been determined.

In the Thousands.

St. Louis, March 20.—The express messenger William Shoddy, told further details of the robbery. He would not say how much money the bandits obtained. Passengers quoted Shoddy as saying $60,000 was in the safe.

Tells Story.

"I had no idea the train had been held up when it stopped," he said. "The first I knew anything was wrong was when I heard something crash against the door of my car. Then the door gave way and a man jumped in. Used Revolver.

"He pointed a revolver at me and ordered me to hold up my hands and keep quiet. Then another man entered. I was ordered to leave the car. Was Guarded.

Outside one man guarded me.

Another was busy in the car for several minutes. Then he came out. A minute later came the explosion. The safe in the express car was wrecked, beyond repair. The whole front being torn away. Officials here have informed that the express car was shattered and express packages broken open by force of explosion.

INDIANA DEMOCRATS ARE FOR MARSHALL

Convention Tomorrow Expected to Declare in Favor of Present Governor—Taggart in Control.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 20.—Every train into Indianapolis today brought scores of delegates to the Democratic State Convention, which meets here tomorrow to nominate candidates for governor and other state officers and to select delegates at large to attend the Democratic national convention in Baltimore. Presidential electors also will be selected. The convention will meet in Tenthman Hall and will be composed of 1,747 delegates.

There appears to be no doubt of the nomination of Samuel Ralston of Lebanon for governor, since he received a solid delegation of 186 votes to the State convention through the influence of Thomas Taggart, former chairman of the national committee and for many years the undisputed boss of the Democratic party in Indiana.

Neither does their appear to be any great likelihood of a contest on the presidential instructions to be given the delegates to the Baltimore convention, as Indiana is expected to show her strength on her favorite son, Governor Thomas H. Marshall.

It is contended that Governor Marshall should have the solid support of the state on the first ballot in the national convention, but it is doubtful if the Indiana delegates will be charged to re-nominate the governor until the end of the fight. It is generally believed that Mr. Taggart plans to throw the strength of the state to Harmon, as soon as it becomes apparent that Governor Marshall has no chance of winning the race. The program is believed to be subject to change only in the event that Senator Keen should decide to enter the presidential race, a thing that is regarded as not only possible, but highly probable if the balloting for candidates should be protracted.

The choice of the State convention for delegates at large probably will fall upon Senators Kern and Shively, Mr. Taggart and a fourth man not yet agreed upon. William H. O'Brien, present state auditor, is believed to succeed Mr. Taggart as the Indiana member of the national committee, Taggart not being a candidate.

Meet to Name Roosevelt Delegates.

Aberdeen, S. D., March 20.—Roosevelt supporters in South Dakota gathered here today to name delegates to the Republican National Convention and to perfect plans for a vigorous campaign. The names of the ten delegates will be placed on the ballot in the coming State primaries.

The sessions will last four days. The program embraces a discussion of child labor, child hygiene, juvenile courts, home economics, public playgrounds and numerous other subjects dealing with the physical, mental and moral welfare of the child.

NATIONAL NEWSPAPER MEETING AT MADISON

Editors From All Over Country Invited to Attend Conference July 29 to August 1.

Madison, Wis., March 20.—The project of holding a national newspaper conference here, July 29 to August 1, under the auspices of the extension division of the University of Wisconsin took definite form today at a luncheon of the general committee. Announcement was made that William T. Stone, the famous editor of the Standard Review of Reviews; Melville R. Stone, general manager of The Associated Press; William Jennings Bryan, editor of The Commoner; William Allen White, editor of The Emporia Gazette; Fremont Older, editor of the San Francisco Bulletin; and Norman Hapgood, editor of Collier's Weekly, were among those who have promised to attend and to participate in discussions of the live issues of American journalism.

Editors to Attend.

Mr. Stone will take a negative point of view in speaking on the topic, "Can the Impartiality of the News-gathering and News-disseminating Agencies be Fairly Challenged?" Promises to attend and speak have been received, in either tentative or positive form, from the following: among others: Charles Grasty, editor of the Baltimore News; George Creel, editor of Rocky Mountain News, Denver; L. V. Stearns, editor of The Boston Commonwealth; Louis Post, editor of the Boston Herald; James City Star; Thomas Fenty, Galveston News; and Charles Holman, Dallas Farm and Ranch.

Purpose of Conference.

The purpose of the conference is to face the question, "Are newspapers and magazine writers free to tell the truth; if not, why not, and what is to be done about it?" This question will be analyzed at the conference in these divisions: Can the impartiality of the news-gathering and news-disseminating agencies be fairly challenged? How is news service affected by (1) the constantly increasing cost of the newspaper; (2) the increasing proportion of total newspaper revenue derived from the advertisers; (3) the capitalistic nature of the newspaper; and (4) its role in social advance, can it be run as simply a business proposition? Can the professional spirit be promoted among newspaper men? If so, how? Can commercial journalism make good, or must we look for the endowed newspaper or the public newspaper?

The plan is to have two papers or addresses, at each session by leaders in American journalism, to be followed by ten-minute discussions.

Leading State Editors.

Under the lead of Col. William J. Anderson, a state committee was formed with W. E. McGowan as honorary chairman. Leading Wisconsin editors and men of affairs are on this committee, and two local committees have been appointed, with Col. Anderson as chairman, Edward E. Stearns as treasurer, and Edward J. Ward secretary.

In a paper by President Van Hise of the university at today's committee meeting, he said that the university's aim in co-operating with this movement is to do what it can to aid the growth of the educational spirit in the newspaper world. Prof. E. A. Ross contrasted two tendencies in present day journalism, the one in the direction of commercialism, the other toward the development of the professional ideal. Richard Lloyd Jones, editor of the Wisconsin State Journal, spoke of the thousands of the coming conference in view of the interest aroused by recent studies in this field made by Collier's Weekly, with which he was formerly connected.

BELIEVE BATTLE IS NOW BEING FOUGHT

Hillville, Virginia, Waiting For Definite News of Capture of Outlaws.

Hillville, Va., March 20.—The village is today waiting definite news of the capture of outlaws or of the battle which is thought to be waging in the mountains.

Ready for Fight.

Down today found detectives and possees surrounding and preparing to assault another mountain stronghold in which the four fugitive murderers are thought to be at bay. Chinot Ridge, a spur of the Blue Ridge mountains, just five miles from the home of Floyd Allen, is supposed to be the hiding place of the outlaw champions.

Every Citizen.

Gathered there today where the posse had been guarding the road, are reinforcements of every available man from Hillville, who have arrived after an all night ride. The leaders expect to attempt to take the fugitives as soon as their exact position has been determined.

Taft's Train Delayed IN NEW YORK BY HEAVY FOG.

New York, March 20.—President Taft found himself a visitor in New York when he was awakened this morning. He had expected to be in Washington, but had been harbored by a fog. The president left last night on the Boston and Washington Express which is ferried around the city on a car float. Because of the fog the railway officials would not venture to send the president's car by the river route. The train was switched.

SEVERAL INCHES OF SNOW FELL IN NORTHERN ILLINOIS

Chicago, March 20.—Several inches of snow fell throughout northern Illinois today and in some sections impeded by a high northwest wind the storm assumed the proportions of a blizzard.

ACCUSED OF HAVING SMUGGLED-CONFESSED AND THEN SUICIDES

Los Angeles Woman Hung Herself From New York Hotel Window When She Found She Must Face Charges.

New York, March 20.—Mrs. Blanche Carson of San Francisco, who was arrested here for smuggling several thousand dollars worth of jewelry on her arrival from India committed suicide early today by hanging herself out of the window of her hotel.

The body of Mrs. Carson was seen by a pedestrian swinging from a window on the eighth floor of the Hotel Bloedel. The clerk was notified and a rope was tied to a radiator forced out of the window and at the end dangled the body of the woman. Two notes were found in the room one of which was addressed to her attorney Harrison Osborn. The contents were not made public.

Mrs. Carson reached here the day before yesterday on the steamship George Washington. She was arrested on the charge of gross under valuation and smuggling. After confessing that she smuggled jewelry which the authorities valued at $20,000. On her arrival Mrs. Carson had declared a package of unstrung pearls greatly under value. On her appearance at examination yesterday she broke down and told of the large amount of jewelry that she had brought into the country concealed in her hat and in her baggage.

Released on $2,000 bail for further examination Friday, Mrs. Carson went up town presumably to her hotel. She registered at the hotel Mrs. Edwin Carson of Paris.

It was understood that her home was in San Francisco but the hotel manager said this morning he thought she resided in Los Angeles. She was about fifty years old and was making a trip around the world alone.

REPORTED THAT NICARAGUA WILL PUNISH CONSPIRATORS

New Orleans, March 20.—As a result of the alleged discovery by the government of Nicaragua of a plot to assassinate Secretary of State Knox on the occasion of his recent visit to the capital of that country, it is not improbable that a number of prominent "liberals" will be put to death, according to advices received here today from Managua.

Thirteen dynamite bombs placed beneath the roadbed over which Secretary Knox's special train traveled from Corinto today today to Managua, and connected with an electric battery were discovered by Government agents and will be used as evidence against the conspirators. Two secretaries of the "liberals" are confined in the penitentiary at Managua and are held incommunicado pending termination of the present investigation by the government. On the day of Mr. Knox's arrival at Managua a bomb was exploded under the Chimalama bridge, between Leon and Lacatlan destroying a small portion of the bridge. Near this point four sections of the telegraph and telephone wires were cut.

IS PRIVATE VALET OF SECRETARY KNOX ON STATE DEPARTMENT PAY-ROLL?

Washington, March 20.—The house committee on state department expenditures is investigating a statement that Secretary of State Knox uses as a private servant Archibald S. Pinkert, a negro, carried on the state department payroll, and that Pinkert is accompanying Mr. Knox as valet on the present Central American tour. Pinkert is said to have been employed by Mr. Knox when the latter was in the United States senate. "Robert P. Clayton, superintendent of the state department room," said Chairman Hamilton of the committee, today, "told us that while Pinkert was carried on the mailing room payroll at $1,200 he has not been at work there more than one third of the time in three years." Clayton's testimony, said Chairman Hamilton, continued, "was confirmed by that of William McInnis, chief clerk of the state department."

NEBRASKA SUFFERING FROM SEVERE SNOW STORM TODAY

Norfolk, Neb., March 20.—The worst of a series of record-breaking snow storms struck northern Nebraska and southern South Dakota early today. Twelve inches of snow had fallen by nine o'clock and snow was still falling at that hour. A high north wind was blowing and the temperature was falling. Train service is paralyzed, many trains being abandoned.

LA FOLLETTE DEFEATS ROOSEVELT EASILY

First Test of the Former President Popular Choice Argument Proves Boomerang.

Fargo, N. Dak., March 20.—With the presidential primary returns received last night Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin evidently has a lead of more than 13,000 votes over Colonel Roosevelt in North Dakota's first presidential primary election.

At an early hour this morning 659 precincts out of 1,800 gave La Follette 21,657 and Roosevelt 17,751. The ratio, if maintained by the reports from other precincts will bring La Follette's majority over Roosevelt to approximately 13,500. There is no indication that the majority which is being returned to La Follette will be smaller in the remaining precincts. La Follette's strength was greater in the eastern part of the state although Roosevelt did not develop so much strength in the west as had been anticipated.

Is Growing.

With 1,167 of the 1,300 precincts in the state heard from at noon today in the North Dakota presidential preference primary election of yesterday, complete returns give Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin 24,159 votes; Col. Theodore Roosevelt, 22,877; and President Taft, 3,000. Senator La Follette's plurality in these 1,167 precincts is 11,282.

La Follette's Views.

Chicago, March 20.—Senator La Follette continued his journey to Washington today over the Pennsylvania railroad. Before leaving Chicago he reiterated his statement that the results in North Dakota showed that the people considered principles and not persons in casting their votes. He announced that he would, on April 1st, start on a tour of the country in the interests of his candidacy and would visit Massachusetts and other New England states, afterward returning to the west where he will campaign in Nebraska and on the Pacific coast.

Washington, March 20.—Director McKelvey of the Taft campaign headquarters, today characterized North Dakota's presidential primary as an indication of what happens in a so-called "soap box" primary. Mr. McKelvey, in a statement this morning, stated that the results of the Roosevelt campaign in North Dakota, who said democrats had voted for La Follette in the republican primary yesterday.

Shows Defects.

"This is exactly what the managers of the Taft campaign have attempted to impress upon the country from the outset of this campaign," said Director McKelvey. "In this instance there was a state law, but without the party enrollment feature. The claim now is made by the Roosevelt managers that it was not a republican primary but one open to all comers."

Roosevelt's Views.

Senator Dixon, manager of Theodore Roosevelt's candidacy, in a statement commenting on the North Dakota primary, said the result was a severe blow for Taft.

"In the election yesterday but one republican voter in forty in North Dakota expressed a wish that Taft be made republican nominee for president," said Dixon. "No such humiliating, crushing defeat of a presidential candidate asking re-nomination, has ever been witnessed in American politics."

Covers Defeat.

"Four years ago in North Dakota Taft received 57,580 republican votes. In the primary election yesterday less than 2,000 republicans in North Dakota expressed a preference for his second nomination. The ten delegates to the national convention elected, are first, last, and all the time, anti-Taft. The delegates elected in North Dakota yesterday had given out signed statements several days ago that if elected, they would support Mr. Roosevelt in the Chicago election when it was shown that La Follette could not be nominated. These ten delegates can be put in the Roosevelt column."

TURTLE ON RAMPAGE; CREEK FLOODS BELoit

Part of City Under Water as Result of Ice Jam Against Bridge.—Families Leave Homes.

Beloit, March 20.—Turtle Creek, one of the widest and little streams in this part of the country during the spring freshets, went on the rampage in six years this morning. The coming of the cold weather caused the water to recede shortly before noon. Ice jams piled against one of the bridges over the creek inside the city limits, caused the stream to turn out of the channel and several families had to seek refuge by leaving their homes. In another part of the city the street car service had to be abandoned today because of the lake of water several blocks in area, that covered the tracks and filled all the cellars in the neighborhood.

NINE PERSONS DIED IN AN EXPLOSION AT DUNMORE, PA.

Coal Siftings Thought to Be Responsible for Accident in Work-ers' Home.

Scranton, Pa., March 20.—In a gas explosion caused, it is thought, by nine settlers, nine persons were killed and two injured in Dunmore, near here. Two families comprising two women and seven children were either blown to pieces or burned in a fire that followed and destroyed three houses.

The dead are: "Mrs. John Cavallini and five children, Rose, aged three; Dominick, eight; Lucy, eleven; Lizzie, fourteen; William, twenty; Mrs. Vito Summa, Mrs. Cavallini's daughter, and two children, Mary, aged seven, and Frank, aged four. The body of Mrs. Summa was found in the limbs of a tree fifty feet from the scene of the explosion a half hour after the accident. More than twenty dwellings near the scene of the explosion were badly damaged by the concussion and the falling timbers. Scores of persons were thrown out of their beds and bruised. During the past week settlements near the Cavallini home have caused alarm. Only a few days ago the cellar dropped out of a house on the opposite side of the street and the miners climbed to the surface by means of ladders let down by women in the house. Dunmore police say that the gas from a broken lamp, caused probably by the settlements, found its way into the cellar of the Cavallini home where it gathered into a dense volume and exploded when it came into contact with an oil lamp that was burning in the house.

STRIKE IS CAUSING DISTRESS TO POOR

Labor Difficulty Which Has Thrown Several Millions Out of Employment, Being Keenly Felt in England.

London, March 20.—The distress throughout the industrial districts of the United Kingdom because of the national coal strike which has thrown one million miners and over one million, five hundred thousand other workmen out of employment, is acute. While delegates of the miners and mine owners are discussing with politicians the minimum wage bill, women, children, and the workers themselves in many places are suffering extreme poverty and appeals are constantly reaching London which appears to be the least affected by the large cities for assistance.

Need Money.

The Earl of Harrowby, who has just toured the Potter districts in Staffordshire, in asking for funds, said that thousands of children in the district are being fed from charitable funds. In this region alone twenty thousand miners are on strike and the lack of coal has thrown out of work sixty thousand potterers. To these numbers must be added thousands of general laborers, porters, railwaymen and barrowmen, whose livelihood depends on the output of the potteries.

Return to Work.

Glasgow, Scotland, March 20.—The officials of the Scottish miners' union this morning received telegraphic instructions from London to make arrangements for having the striking miners return to the pits to work on March 27th.

COAL MINERS DIE IN EXPLOSION AND FIRE

Mine at McCurtain, Oklahoma, Reported to Be on Fire After Gas Explosion with 85 Killed.

Fort Smith, Ark., March 20.—A telephone report says the San Joaquin company mine at McCurtain, Okla., was blown up by gas today and now is on fire. Eighty-five men are believed to have lost their lives.

Men Escaped.

McAllister, Okla., March 20.—Nine men escaped from the McCurtain and seventy men still are on the surface. Another explosion is momentarily expected, according to telephone messages received here. Air was forced into the shaft this afternoon despite the fire, but those at the mouth of the shaft believe all remaining below are dead.

PACKERS' TRIAL IS NOW NEAR THE END

GOVERNMENT HAS DONE EVERYTHING IN ITS POWER TO CONVICT MEN CHARGED WITH VIOLATION OF LAW.

HAS BEEN PROLONGED

For Several Months Until All Details Have Been Worked Out By Both Sides and Testimony All Reviewed.

Chicago, March 20.—The trial of the ten Chicago packers on charges of conspiracy in maintaining a combination in restraint of trade in violation of the criminal provision of the Sherman anti-trust law which began December 6, is the closing chapter of a long local battle waged by the government against the packers.

The heads of the packing companies in the proceedings are named as individual defendants and a verdict of guilty under the law would make them liable to either a fine of $5,000 each, or imprisonment for one year or both penalties.

The ten defendants are: J. Oden Armour, president Armour and Company.

Arthur Meeker, director and general manager Armour and Company.

Thomas J. Connors, director and general superintendent Armour and Company.

Louis F. Swift, president Swift and Company.

Edw. F. Swift, vice-president Swift and Company.

Charles H. Swift, director Swift and Company.

Francis A. Fowler, manager beef department Swift and Company.

Edward Morris, president Morris and Company.

Louis H. Heyman, manager beef department Morris and Company.

Edward Tilden, president National Packing Company.

The government contends: That prior to 1902 prices were fixed, shipments regulated and territory divided by the old beef pool which met every Tuesday afternoon.

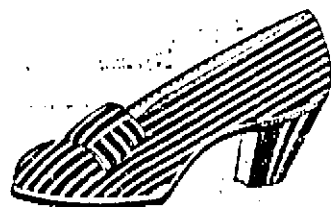

That after the old beef pool dissolved in 1902 the packers still secret meetings at each others' homes.

That the National Packing Company since its organization in 1903 has been used as the "clearing house" for the alleged combination.

That the packers adopted a test cost and margin system which was used in the purchase of cattle and the sale of fresh meat.

That the allowances made for by-products in flouting the test cost were inadequate and the "cost" used by the packers was fictitious and higher than the actual cost.

That the representatives of the different companies in New York, Boston and other eastern cities exchanged information in regard to Justice of the Peace. Stanley D. Taitman, Republican candidate for Justice of the Peace had no opposition and received 1001 votes. A. M. Plator was elected without opposition to the office of School Commissioner at Large, receiving 712 votes.

Vote Canvassed. The votes cast in yesterday's election were canvassed today by City Clerk R. M. Cummings, President of the Democratic city committee J. J. Cunningham and H. L. McNamara, president of the Republican city committee.

Others Who Ran High. W. T. Flaherty received the fifth highest number of votes with 391, which is not enough to place him on the ticket. Ed. Connell, junior alderman from the second ward, ran sixth with 222 votes. E. J. Schmidt was seventh. C. B. Evans, senior alderman from the first ward, was eighth with 200 votes, and J. E. Hutchinson, former mayor of the city, and supervisor from the second ward, was ninth with 194 votes.

The vote in the various wards is more than passing interest. Friends of James A. Fathers are well satisfied with the result. Mr. Fathers carried every ward of the city by a good margin with the exception of the fourth, where James L. Cronin came within six votes of his competitor, the final vote standing 230 for Fathers and 224 for Cronin.

Maxfield Runs High. Harry L. Maxfield, present city attorney, ran a close race and came within fourteen votes of being placed on the ticket instead of Cronin. He ran second in the first ward with 144 votes against 260 for Fathers and 71 for Cronin.

In the fifth ward Maxfield had one vote the better of Cronin, with 89, Fathers received 133 votes in the fifth. (Continued on page 9.)

grossed leaders led the fight. True, he emerged, as did Achilles of old, and has sprung into the battle front, but his fighting is really more of the type of avenging Genghis and his Mongols or, better still, the tactics of the famed cats of Kilkenny, but nevertheless he is fighting, and former leaders and their labors are forgotten and lost sight of by the people.

Strenuous Teddy is in the progressive saddle and his henchmen are scattered to the four winds stirring up rebellion and carrying the brand of warfare throughout the nation. But who is this close on his heels? Who is the belligerent little man who never forgets an injury and always repays his enemies in the same coin he has been paid in? Who is seeking to bring to naught his carefully planned campaign of gathering delegates, allies, returning from the same Trojan war in which Achilles fought, suffered many trials and tribulations before he safely reached his beloved home, but it would appear that "Strenuous" Teddy is going to have a harder time shaking off the terrible belligerent La Follette than did even the Greek hero in escaping from the blind giant Cyclops. It is an interesting sight. Roosevelt is back in the limelight. It matters not if it is by prizefighters, jockeys, emperors, hosts of the junkies or adding membership to the Annandale club that he becomes the cynosure of all eyes. He longed for the three minute talks from the end of trains, with engineer standing watch in hand, a host of press representatives to send to the gasping public his latest sayings, and finally to shake hands with the engineer just as he took the train for the place at the proper moment for the photographer to snap him, high hat and all. He is once more the Teddy of old and the days of his abduction are over. He is back from Elba and starts on his hundred days' campaign to win his throne and perhaps to end as did the other strenuous one of France, at Waterloo, when Blucher La Follette falls him in the hour of need.

Why not start something and have a bill introduced in the next legislature which would have the recent reorganization decided to be illegal. The citizens of Janesville know it was not performed by experts, so why not get ahead and have the legislature decide it was. There are hundreds who would be glad to appear before the legislative committee to prove it is harmful. Not only that, but also outrageous.

Now that North Dakota is disposed of why not stop in and do the same in Wisconsin and give Taft a good sized delegation at Chicago. If the senior Wisconsin senator had a chance it would be different, but as it is Wisconsin will not make any material difference.

The next thing to do is to get together and boost Janesville. One of the best ways to do this is to aid the committee in the purchase of the West Side rink, and the next is to make your selection for the April election.

Candidates for the office of councilmen at yesterday's primary had a hard row to hoe. "With such a large field it was hard to pick from and as each candidate had his personal supporters the vote cast was really no criterion to go by if the field had been smaller.

If the members of the legislature vote to abolish the income tax, the Mary Ann law, and the primary law they would receive the laurel wreath and also unanimous reelection to the next legislature by a grateful people.

Well, you have your choice—Mr. Namura, Hall, Cummings and Merrill. The people decided they wanted to select two of these gentlemen and to be the commissioners for two and four years respectively. Take your choice on April 2.

Evidently the social democrats in Milwaukee had some thinking to do, Tuesday, when they figured out to vote for Cary and try and defeat Harding.

Did you notice that vote in North Dakota yesterday? How did you figure it all out, in view of all that has been said and written?

Evidently the voters of Janesville thought pretty well of James Fathurs by the rousing endorsement they gave him Tuesday.

Now that the primary is over, turn to and boost the proposition to buy the West Side rink for a public meeting place for time to come.

To a rank outsider it looks as though the state legislature was in for a four months' session.

Mr. Cronin won his place on the ticket by a narrow squeeze, but he is there all right.

affair is a blot on that state and the offenders should be speedily given the punishment they so richly deserve. When people, even though they are mountaineers, give no thought to the value of human life, they show that there is something lacking in their claims to real civilization.

Kansas For Women. Chicago Examiner: Kansas is famous for many things, and now her attorney general declares she leads the states in liberal provisions for women. For instance, a woman can hold any elective office there; she can wear trousers if she likes; she can retain her maiden name after she is married; she can hold property which her husband cannot touch and sell it without asking him, and, if she is able, she can persuade her husband to give up his name and take hers.

In only a few of the Eastern states can a woman practice law, but there are more than sixty women attorneys in Kansas; also more than a hundred women physicians.

There may be a wild fanatical rush for the plains of the Sunflower State when these facts become generally known.

RECHEN-WAW-WAW! Spring, gentle spring, wild birds up on the wing. Oh, and so brightly shining in the sky. Robins are chirping and swallows swooping. Oh, young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love. Green grass is growing once more out on the lawn. Spring fever's here and it makes us stretch and yawn. Oh, plucking garden weeds do glad some hours beguile. Spring, gentle spring, isn't it just the dearest thing?

There are several better ways to sit rich quick than settin' around the corner grocery store and discussing the financial situation. Hod Hinks can bump down stairs on his head and is thinking of writin' a musical comedy around it and puttin' it on the stage.

About the hardest thing for a father to impress upon his son is that there are certain forms of language that a father can use and a son can't. Hod Spinks says after the first of the year he ain't going to drink any more. He couldn't if he tried.

Grandma Peters has been readin' in the papers that there are some magnificent spectacles at the New York hippodrome and says, by ginner, she wishes she had a pair of 'em. Nobody has thrown a bootjack at a cut or shipped an editor in fifty years.

A MODERN ROMANCE. Oh, they set upon the sofa, him and her. And he clasped her little hand quite close in his. They sat there quite a while and didn't stir. Until the round and yaller moon had risen.

And then he said: "By you moon 'way out yonder, You'll never wed another man, I swear it." Take this here solid gold (filled) ring, by thunder. And on your dainty finger always wear it."

She said: "Thank you, kind sir, I'll take the ring, sir. I'll always wear it even when I slumber. But wedding you is quite another thing, sir. There's others and I'll simply take your number."

"He who luffs last luffs best," is an old saying. Our hero got revenge for his enthrallment. They came and got the ring, for he stopped paying. The 27 cent-a-week installment.

"MILLIONAIRE KID" GOES HOME TO FACE CHARGES.

Chicago, Ill. — The "Millionaire Kid," John C. Jurgens, who is alleged to have padded the payroll of Cleveland to the extent of $60,000, left here last night for his former home, in the custody of John E. Doran, representative of the Cleveland police, who had agreed to return without extradition papers. With him were a number of newspaper men of Cleveland, who had for weeks been trailing the kid and had finally brought about his arrest.

The history of Jurgens is a spectacular one. While he was receiving a salary of $30 a month in Cleveland, he suddenly began to spend money at the rate of $25,000 a year. He explained his abundance by the statement that money had been left him by a rich friend.

He contracted debts far in excess of the amount he spent, and one day people of Cleveland, who had for months called him the "Millionaire Kid," woke up to find that he had left and that he was in debt to practically every one with whom he had come in touch. It is probable that during the last two years he has spent close to $100,000.

The 24-year-old spendthrift problem that he will not be convicted and that he will not even be prosecuted.

Undisputed. "A man who allows his wife to have her own way," says a Boston professor, "is a philosopher and a diplomat." Ergo, millions of married men are philosophers and diplomats.

Complete Satisfaction:

This afternoon a lady brought in a friend to have her teeth extracted. She said, "Now, Dr. Richards, you took mine out without hurting, and I want you to do as well by my friend." I did, too, because I heard her telling that Dr. Richards had extracted two teeth and she never felt it.

CLINTON

Clinton, March 20.—Mrs. Ira Hastings left today for Aberdeen, South Dakota to visit her son, Paul, and wife.

Miss Anna Latta, who has been recovering from a severe attack of sickness, sank into a sound sleep at two o'clock p. m. yesterday, and it was with great difficulty that the physician could awaken her. The peculiar relapse was unexpected and mystifying as Miss Latta had so far recovered as to be able to be out for a drive on nice days.

The excitement over the annual spring election does not get very heated. The names of three men are mentioned for mayor and two for county supervisor, and apparently no notice is being taken of the other offices.

STOLE GAS ENGINE; CARRIED SIX MILES

William Hopkins, Seventeen-Year-Old Evansville Boy Committed to State Industrial School.

To carry a motor-cycle engine, weighing thirty-five pounds from Janesville to Leyden, a distance of six miles, was the unusual feat performed by William Hopkins, a seventeen-year-old Evansville boy who pleaded guilty before Judge Fifield this morning to stealing the engine from the house of Byron Jones in this city on March 14th. Hopkins was committed to the state industrial school for boys at Waukesha. He did not know why he took the engine, but those who know the boy say he is very much fascinated by machinery. Some time before the theft took place Hopkins had visited the Jones home and considered buying the engine, and it was this fact that led to his detection. The engine is valued at $15. Hopkins had taken it to the Frost Engine company to have it repaired. Assistant Chief of Police Gillman of Evansville brought him to Janesville this morning.

SNOW STORM USHERS IN SPRING WEATHER

If This Be Real Spring Weather May We Be Delivered From Genu-ine Winter.

The vernal equinox, which marks the beginning of the glad season of spring, is due tonight. She is scheduled to arrive at Washington at 6:21 this evening. The equinox, in astronomy, is either one of two points at which the sun, in its annual apparent course among the stars, crosses the equator, and is so called because the days and nights are nearly equal when the sun is at those points. The vernal or spring equinox, beginning tonight, is always meant when one of equinox is referred to. The season of spring, astronomically speaking, continues to the summer solstice, which this year will begin on the afternoon of June 21. The autumnal equinox will usher in the autumn season on the morning of Sept. 23, while the winter solstice will commence shortly before midnight on Dec. 21. It takes the sun seven or eight days longer to go from vernal to autumnal equinox than from autumnal to vernal. The equinoctial sales, which often rage at about the time of the vernal and autumnal equinoxes, are declared by the meteorological wise men to have nothing to do with the equinoxes, and to be merely coincidences. No old tin, however, will believe this.

"Tonight the sun enters the sign Aries, or the Ram, which governs the period from March 20 to April 19. According to astrologers, persons born under this sign have executive ability and a faculty for commanding, and are at the same time capable of blind obedience, when necessary. They are also of an inventive turn of mind, original and determined, and 'set in their ways.' Aries subjects are also said to be charming conversationalists, agreeable and entertaining unless aroused to wrath, when they make enemies greatly to be feared. The Aries person is usually well-built and physically strong. Their principal faults are anger, selfishness, extreme aggressiveness and impatience. An Aries subject, according to astrologers, should marry a person born under the sign of Sagittarius, which rules from Nov. 21 to Dec. 20. Such a couple, the sooth-sayers say, will live a happy and contented domestic life and their offspring will be physically and mentally of a high order."

INCOME TAX RETURNS FLOOD THE ASSESSOR

Many, However, Have Failed to Sign Their Name to the Statements Sent In.

County Income Tax Assessor F. A. Taylor is being flooded with income tax returns. In fact the "papers" are coming in so rapidly that the force is unable to handle them adequately. About five hundred returns have been received.

According to Mr. Taylor, a number of persons are including items of permanent improvement under the heading "repairs." He stated this morning that all such papers would be returned and new ones would have to be made out.

"If a man shingles his house it is all right for him to include that cost under the 'repair' head," said Mr. Taylor. "But if he puts in a hardwood floor, or new plumbing or builds a kitchen at his house he should not place that under the 'repair' heading."

"Another peculiar fact is that many persons have forgotten to sign their names to their papers. This makes it necessary to send the papers back and causes much inconvenience."

"People should use every effort to make their returns as outlined in the blanks and to do so promptly. If this is complied with they will have no difficulty and it will expedite the work of the assessor very much."

BOARD OF CONTROL URGES ACTION NOW

Appeals to Chairman of Rock County Board of Supervisors Relative to Sanitaria.

Appealing to the various counties to hasten their arrangements for tuberculosis sanatoria, the State Board of Control has sent a letter to county chairman J. A. Paul outlining the provision which has been made for the state aid and the great necessity for such institutions.

The letter, which is signed by W. H. Crohnor, president, states as follows:

"There can be no question that the advanced consumptive, not only in urgent need of proper care, but because of his weak and helpless condition, but that he is also the source of greatest danger in spreading the disease to others."

"The best authorities are agreed that the most suitable place to care for the advanced cases is near their own homes in institutions to be built and maintained by the various counties of the state. In recognition of this the state has made provision for state aid in maintaining them."

Bingham, H. C. Buel, C. S. Cleland, and J. F. Spoon. Burial was made in Oak Hill cemetery. INTERESTING LECTURE ON MODERN NEWSPAPER.

Albert L. Blair Gave Instructive and Entertaining Address at Orfordville Last Evening.

Orfordville, March 20.—Albert L. Blair's lecture at Wee's Opera House last evening on "The Whirl of the Newspaper Press" was a very able discussion of the achievements of the newspaper, its needs and its possibilities. The lecture was worth all it cost to the community just for its denunciation of "yellow journalism." His discussion of editorials was worth money to any editor. His thirty-five years experience in newspaper work have well fitted Mr. Blair to speak with authority on these subjects.

The lecture was humorous and entertaining as well as instructive. His picture of the possibilities of the future included the printing of the newspaper by electricity or X-rays, and distributing it by flying machines.

Through the lecture there was upheld a high, clean ideal that the newspaper should attain. Many expressed their great appreciation of the lecture and desired him to give us a return date next year.

Stay in Wisconsin IS ADVICE TO YOUTH

Wisconsin Agricultural Society Bonanza of Fruit Growing Possibilities in Various Sections.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., March 20.—"Don't go west, young man; stay in Wisconsin," is the advice given by the Wisconsin Agricultural Society in a new booklet called "The Truth About Fruit Growing in Wisconsin," now being distributed widely by the state board of immigration. The author does not say that Wisconsin is the very best fruit state, but asserts that in certain lines the chances are fully as good to make money in fruit raising in Wisconsin as in any other state in the west. It is noted that the largest sour cherry orchard in the United States is in Wisconsin and that one county, Door, has over a quarter million cherry trees; that apples have netted $1,100 per acre for a single crop, and that Bayfield county, in the Lake Superior region, ranks second in the production of strawberries.

"We need most of all right now," says the writer, "young men with moderate capital to buy twenty, forty or eighty acres of land each and develop real fruit farms. Such men will be specialists and put on the market quality fruit. We need thousands of these specialists."

Those Qualities So Essential In Tailored Garments

Every woman of discernment knows that the true measure of satisfaction in a tailored garment lies in its permanence of shapeliness.

This necessary quality depends partly upon the tailoring of the garment and upon the fabric used. The charm of this present-day mode is in its slender grace imparted by straight, youthful lines, and to give permanence to those lines—to preserve that charm as long as the garment lasts—this is the problem of the cloth manufacturer first, and of the maker of the garment afterwards. In the numbers quoted below we call your attention to style fabrics which for staying qualities are recognized by high-class tailors. Read carefully, make your selection and have your Suit, Coat or Skirt tailored to your individual measure by the IDEAL LADIES' TAILORING CO., of Chicago. Call and let us explain the Ideal Tailoring System to you.

HEART AND HOME TALKS

Two Progressive Mothers.

I DIDN'T feel a bit like going into town to the matinee this afternoon, even though I had the ticket," said a woman in a small suburban station to a neighbor. "It is such an effort to get dressed and go in when you have been working all the morning."

The neighbor nodded sympathetically.

"But Ted said to me, 'Oh, mother, don't get in the way of never wanting to go anywhere. Because when you do that, you get frumpy.'"

Ted used a more inebriated word than frumpy, for Ted is ten years old, and, though his mother does not so regard him, the neighbors look upon him as an imp of Satan. He conversed still further with his mother upon the subject, and cited to her in support of his argument, various of the neighbors who seldom went to town, and whose appearance did not please his taste.

As the result of his remarks, his mother went.

A few nights later, another woman on a suburban train was heard to remark, "I didn't want to go into town, but my boy phoned out to come in and take supper with him. He had to stay in town. I know if I didn't come, he'd get somebody else, and as he was quite happy at the thought of giving me a treat, I didn't like to disappoint him."

These mothers are certainly wise. They are reading the signs of the times and profiting thereby. The boy of today, if he had to make a choice, would rather have a mother whose appearance and chumminess he was proud of, than one whose fame rested solely on her pie and cakes, but for whose appearance he had mentally to apologize. Boys are not so terribly critical of what they eat, so that they have enough and it is palatable, nor of the condition of the house. But they do take note if their mother is untidy, or shabby or old-fashioned.

This does not mean that a mother should neglect the household end of her business and put all her time and thought on dress. Children need nourishing food. And a tasteful, pleasant home means much to their development. But these should not be all. Many mothers are inclined to think they have done their full duty in caring for the physical welfare of their children, in giving them a home that is all it should be. Indeed, some mothers take delight in sacrificing in the matter of dress that the children may have more. But this is an unwise policy. And the children themselves will in the course of time not be grateful for it. Girls and boys do not like to present to their young friends a mother of whose appearance they are ashamed. They should not and probably would not be ashamed, if real poverty and necessary self-sacrifice caused their mother's shabby appearance. But if neglect or indifference is at the root of it, they will hardly overlook it.

So mothers who wish to be the real chums of their children should consider the attitude of these two boys. For they were not exceptional boys. And probably they voiced what hundreds of other boys are thinking. Don't drop out of the world and its interests. Don't sink into indifference in regard to dress. Be alive to all that is going on, so that your children will know you will enjoy a jaunt of any kind as much as they. And dress so that they need never hesitate to present you to their friends, but rather will do it with pride, because you look so sweet and dainty.

Barbara Boyd.

ained Mr. and Mrs. Grace had many quarrels over this woman, and it was because she resided in Atlanta that Mrs. Grace, for a time, refused to go to that city to live.

Although the detectives were sent here by the relatives of Grace for the purpose of investigating Mrs. Grace, they are spending a great deal of time in delving into the record of the husband.

They discovered that Mrs. Grace carried a revolver while here, and often declared she would kill her husband if she found him too fond of another woman.

The detectives refuse to explain the minutiae with which they are endeavoring to get the history of the most diamonds owned by Mrs. Grace. Originally there were thirty-eight of these, ranging from 15 to 3 karats, and the detectives have discovered that the first husband of Mrs. Grace purchased these diamonds for $400 each.

SEASONABLE DISHES.

Try a cream of soup with a cup of grated cheese added just before serving. Such a soup is sufficiently nourishing, with a little bread, for a well-balanced meal.

Paradise make a good soup if carefully made, adding a cup of the pulp put through a sieve to a cream or milk soup.

A most attractive salad is one prepared with celery hearts cut crosswise, tips of blanched asparagus and a few strips of canned red pepper (optional). Serve with French dressing on lettuce leaves.

Nut Muffins.—Mix and sift together one and a half cups of flour, a teaspoonful of salt and three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, a tablespoonful of sugar. Beat until light one egg, add three-fourths of a cup of milk and stir it into the flour mixture. Beat well, then add a half cup of broken walnut meats and three tablespoonfuls of melted butter. Fill buttered muffin pans two-thirds full and bake.

A new way of keeping bread and cake fresh is to use a wet sponge in the box. Lay the sponge in a saucer so that it will not come in contact with the bread.

German Almond Cookies.—Beat the yolks of six eggs until lemon colored; add a cup and a half of sugar beaten to a cream with three-fourths of a cup of softened butter. Add a cup of blanched and chopped almonds, a tablespoonful of cinnamon and three cups of flour. Beat hard and drop by spoonfuls on a buttered sheet, putting an almond on the top of each cake. Bake in a moderate oven.

Baked Corn With Minced Meat.—Take two cups of corn, add a cup of minced meat, chicken or any that is at hand, add a half cup of milk, an egg well beaten, salt and pepper and cover with bread crumbs, and bake.

Cakes and Bonbons Made From Maple Sugar and Syrup.

By Alice E. Whitaker.

New maple sugar is advertised each year long before the sap begins to run and to the uninitiated it is doubtless all the same that old sugar is nipped out as new. It will soon be late enough to get the genuine syrup and sugar so many good things may be made that cannot be imitated successfully even with the best of brown sugar.

If you melt maple sugar in a very

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

I WOULDN'T give much for a person who didn't have backbone enough to hate some one." I heard a girl say that the other day in justification of a statement which she had just made about disliking one of the girls at her school. Her mother had gently rebuked her for having such a feeling, and the above statement, accompanied by a toss of the head, was her way of taking the rebuke.

It seems to me that this idea that it takes backbone to be an enemy, and that it is a sign of a high-strung and desirable temperament to hate, has a good deal of prevalence. People quote, in support of this view, the saying that a man who has no enemies has not done very much. They have that wrong idea, but not those whom he hates. To be hated may sometimes be a sign of character; to hate another idea would make a business some day of analyzing the causes and motives behind all the hatreds which they pride themselves on cherishing, and then see if they think hating is so fine a thing.

If we hated people for being cruel, for causing suffering, or for being very wicked in any direction, our hatred would not be an altogether shameful thing, although even then it would be better to hate the sin and pity the sinner—he often needs it more than those whom he sins against. But can you honestly say that any of these people whom you allow yourself to hate are really wicked? No, you know they are not. They are a rather small-minded person who are doing something unkind about you, which came to your ears. The other name for that particular hate is simply desire for revenge. Another has certain irritating little personal characteristics which are offensive to you, and you say you hate him. But surely that doesn't give you reason to call him wicked. No, the other name for that hate is simply animosity. And probably, at least two or three of those whom you say you hate or dislike are people who have offended you in no more sinful way than by being more clever or more popular, or more successful in some direction than yourself. And the other name of that hate is the ugly little word—envy.

Would you say that a man or woman who was too big, and too busy to bother with any of these mean and childish feelings "wasn't worth much"? It is sometimes said in exaltation—my, more, in praise—of hating, that people who have strong likes also have strong dislikes. This may be true of people at a certain stage of development, but the biggest people are those who put so much of their energy into loving and living, that they haven't any time for hating.

Little water do not imagine that it is the same thing as the syrup. It is true that sugar is made from syrup but the latter was not boiled to the sugar stage and it has quite a different flavor.

For a maple sugar cake make the layers of any good kind of cake and then spread with a filling for which break one pound of maple sugar into small pieces and melt with one-half cup of boiling water. Cook ten minutes or until it will thread then pour in a fine stream onto the stillly beaten whites of two eggs and continue beating until stiff enough to spread.

An extra nice cake filling is made from maple syrup. Cook two cups of the syrup until it will thread then pour onto the stillly beaten white of one egg, beat until stiff enough to spread then add one cup of finely chopped nuts.

For maple bonbons put two cups of grated maple sugar one cup of water and a good pinch of cream of tartar into a sauce pan and stir until the sugar is melted then cook six minutes without stirring. Test by dropping a bit into cold water when it hardens pour the syrup onto a large platter slightly buttered. When it is nearly cold but not hard, stir with a wooden spoon until creamy then knead. To make bonbons heat a little of the candy after it is finished and drop in teaspoon on paraffine paper. Press a nut meat in each and for a change stir some chopped meats in before forming the bonbons.

Regular maple fudge is made from one pound of sugar broken in small pieces. Fill a cup three-quarters full of maple syrup then fill with boiling water. Pour over the sugar and simmer without stirring until cold water test will roll between the fingers into a soft ball. This will require longer cooking than for the thread stage. Beat until creamy then pour in a buttered pan and when partly cool mark into squares.

Main pudding sauce is simply maple. To one-half cup of grated maple sugar add one-half cup of milk and simmer together five minutes. Add a rounding tablespoon of butter and serve.

Another way to get the maple flavor is in custards. Roll the sugar as finely as possible with a rolling pin. Beat five eggs light add the sugar, a salt spoon of salt, and turn into three cups of milk that have been heated to the boiling point and cooled. Strain into small buttered cups, set in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven until firm in the center. When cool unmold onto small plates for serving.

Jealousy.

The man who is blinding his way through the world is hated most bitterly and despised most deeply by the man who is trying without success to do the same thing.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

THE OLD NATIONAL ROAD.

BY A. W. MACY.

It is difficult for the present generation to realize the important part played by the "old National road" in the settlement of the central west. This road, or "National pike," as it was often called, extends from Cumberland, Md., to Vandalia, Ill., a distance of about 1,200 miles. Across Ohio and Indiana it is almost as straight as an arrow. It was built by the United States government, under the supervision of the war department. It was projected in 1800, and was constructed in sections, the government making appropriations from time to time. The last one was made in 1838, and the total appropriations were $6,824,919.33. Toll was collected from those traveling on the road, but it was never self-supporting. For many years it was the great highway to the west, and was traveled by many thousands of people in "prairie schooners," or covered wagons, seeking homes in the new country. The road was a political factor of some importance at various times, some favoring and some opposing its construction and maintenance. At Plainfield, Ind., through which the road runs, there is an ancient elm still standing, known as "the Van Buren tree." Tradition has it that at one time when President Van Buren was going over the road on a tour of inspection, he was spilled in the mud in front of this tree, by reason of an axle that had been sawed almost in two by some political enemy.

Ancient Egyptian physicians belonged to the priesthood, to that caste to which, in addition to religious worship, the care of all learning was intrusted. And physicians, as members of the priestly college, were in receipt of money and all manner of grub and good drinks from the temple funds. How different today! DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN
Food Specialist

EXCLUSIVE FRUIT DIET WON'T DO.

Many writers on food hold that it is possible to live on fruits alone and this conclusion has become more plausible since the reduction in standard tables of the percentage of albumen required in the ration. Experiments made with an ape, the animal whose nutrition is nearest to man's, now seem to indicate that the fruitarian diets' conclusions are incorrect—unless fruit be understood to include nuts. The monkey pined after a time when it was confined to fruits exclusively, but revived when a small amount of animal food was added. It is now well established that the average dietary contains too much protein (contained largely in meat, eggs, fish and cheese), but it is not advisable to live on fruits alone, although it is well established that the highest class of mental and physical work can be done on fruits with nuts and cereals, although such a diet is improved by the addition of buttermilk or cottage cheese.

Baking Powder Biscuits

Light as a Feather

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine

Baking Powder Biscuits made by this recipe are so far ahead of ordinary baking powder biscuits that, if once tried, you will never use any other recipe. Try it the next time you run short of bread. Save this recipe.

K C Baking Powder Biscuits

Three cups flour; 1/2 to 3/4 cup shortening; 3 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; about 1 cup milk or water; 1 teaspoonful salt.

Sift three times, the flour, salt and baking powder. Work into the flour the shortening, using lard or butter for shortening. Then mix to a very soft dough with the milk. The softer the biscuit enters the oven, the lighter it comes out. Never knead baking powder biscuits; press the dough into shape and roll lightly. Cut in small shapes and bake on a sheet or very shallow pan in a hot oven. In placing biscuits in the pans place well apart, not allowing edges to touch. Small biscuits are better than large ones. Large biscuits do not have the proper amount of time to raise and bake.

Have you seen the new K C Cook's Book? Brimful of appetizing recipes that simply must be successful every time if the few simple directions are carefully followed. You would gladly pay 50 cents for this valuable book, yet we send it absolutely free upon receipt of the colored certificate packed in every 25-cent package of K C Baking Powder. Jaques Bros. Co., Chicago. Small cans do not have Cook's Book certificates.

TONA VITA BUILDS UP RUN-DOWN PEOPLE

Physicians Have Great Success With Tonic in This Country.

When people of wealth become debilitated and run down in health they go to high priced sanitariums and health resorts to be built up again. But what about the thousands of debilitated nervous men and women with no vitality or ambition who neither have the time nor money to spare for such luxuries as sanitariums? If you are in this miserable condition read with care the following statement by M. F. Mann, living at 53 Good Avenue, Buffalo, N. Y.

"I have had indigestion and been all run down for ten years. I couldn't eat anything at times and was always complaining. My nerves were out of order and I had bad headaches. I believed I had kidney trouble, too, as I had dull pains in my back much of the time. I was easily excited and often when I couldn't eat and had a nervous attack I would suffer severe dizzy spells.

"I heard so much about the new tonic, 'Tona Vita' that I decided to give it a trial and I feel like a different man. I am strong in every way. I sleep well, can eat anything and my nerves are as steady as can be. I have gained four pounds in the last ten days. I believe 'Tona Vita' is the best medicine on earth."

"Tona Vita was introduced in this country by a number of physicians scarcely a year ago. The tonic has proved the biggest success of any medicine ever before sold to the public.

If you are debilitated and run down don't allow this miserable condition to last a day longer. Let Tona Vita build you up and bring back your health. If it fails your money will be returned by our agent in your city. Smith Drug Co. is the agent for Tona Vita in Janesville. The Approved Formula Company, Dayton, Ohio.

A New Stomach

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Restore Lifeless Organs to Normal Condition.

A Trial Package Free.
 Many a sufferer from dyspepsia, indigestion and kindred ailments of the digestive organs carries around an absolutely useless stomach—a dead load, and a compass for ever-increasing disorders. The muscles are seemingly worn out, the mucous lining has lost its secretory power, and food taken into the stomach lies there and ferments, causing sour eructations, belchings, heartburn, dizziness and other distressing conditions. Many sufferers have given up in despair until they have been induced by some interested friend to try a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the dyspeptic's hope. They are a natural restorative of healthy action to the stomach and small intestines, because they supply the elements that the weak stomach lacks—pepsin, golden sand and other digestives.

If you are afflicted with any of the symptoms above described, be assured that your digestive organs are losing power—they need help and there is no more sensible help to be given than that to supply elements which will do the work of digestion for them.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been found by test to have digestive powers, one grain of the active principle of these tablets being sufficient to digest 3,000 grains of ordinary food. It is plain that no matter what the condition of your stomach, or how far your disease has progressed, one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets taken at meal time will do the work—give your stomach an opportunity to regain its lost powers, the muscles will be strengthened, the glands invigorated, and you will be a new man.

WRITES OF TROUBLE DOWN IN CHIHUAHUA

H. H. Frie, Formerly Connected With the Gazette, in Center of the Mexican Revolution.

Janesville men and women manage to reach all parts of the civilized globe at all times when the world's news is being made. In a letter from H. H. Frie, formerly connected with the Gazette, now at Chihuahua, Mex., in the heart of the revolutionary region, a short description of the condition is given that is interesting.

Mr. Frie had several hair-raising experiences during the rebellion a year ago and is once more in the midst of midnight alarms and fighting men. He writes to friend here:

"Back in Mexico again in war times. The city of Chihuahua, which is the capital of the state of Chihuahua, was captured by the rebels a few days ago. The streets are filled with armed men ready for the next fight with the federals. There are at least three times as many insurgents fighting against the Madro government that there were last year fighting Diaz. I believe the United States will within three weeks send at least half the United States army to the Mexican border, and it looks like intervention. All Americans here believe it will come as well as those residing on the border towns. If these people do not want to see it, they want Mexico to settle this little war and by that time they will be ready to settle down as quietly as they did before the trouble began."

SPEAKERS CHOSEN FOR SEMI-FINALS

Four Students From Each Class Selected for Inter-Class Extemporaneous Contest.

Winners of the preliminary extemporaneous speaking contest held at the high school yesterday afternoon were chosen for the semi-finals which will take place early next week. The entire school was divided up into its four class divisions, the contestants in each class speaking before its own class members and each class being judged by three members of the faculty.

Owing to the fact that the Freshmen have not had the same amount of experience in this work as the three upper classes have, it was arranged this year to offer a "Phoenix" to the winner in that class and then to make the contest from there on optional for the Freshman winner. In this contest James Dixon secured the first place and was awarded the Phoenix. Phelps Leo secured second place and Shorwood Sheldon, third.

In the Sophomore class the winners were Ethel Murty, Besse Buell, Allen Dearborn and Russell Bentley. The Junior class will be represented by the following members: Olive Reynolds, Ralph Southman, Harold Mohr, and John Grant.

The Seniors will be represented by Florence Hogboom, Elsie Davis, Margaret Doty and Millie Brinker with Roy Cannon as alternate and the only boy on the Senior team.

PACKERS' TRIAL IS NOW NEAR THE END

June 21, 1910.—Indictments against the National Packing Company quashed by Judge Lunda and a special grand jury called to renew the investigation.

Aug. 11, 1910.—Thomas G. Lee, manager of the dressed beef sales department of Armour and Company, indicted for perjury and Alfred R. Upton, chief counsel for the company and three employees charged with destroying stenographic notes containing important information desired by the government.

Aug. 15, 1910.—Attorney Upton discharged with a reprimand and the other respondents held for further hearing.

Sept. 12, 1910.—Indictments returned charging ten packers with conspiracy in maintaining a combination in restraint of trade.

Dec. 6, 1911.—Trial of the ten packers begun before Judge Carpenter.

The trial was one of the longest, criminal trials in the history of the federal court. It began Dec. 6, 1911, and the jury was sworn in Dec. 19.

The first witness was called by the government Dec. 26. The government put forty-nine witnesses on the stand and introduced one thousand, four hundred and eighty-eight documents in evidence. The record of the case contains five million words.

It is estimated that the trial cost the packers $500,000 and the government $100,000.

The first witness called by the government was Albert H. Vesper, the dean of counsel for the packers and personal advisor of the late Gustavus E. Swift, founder of Swift and Company. He gave a graphic description of the old packers' pool, which met every Tuesday afternoon prior to 1902 and gave the details of the method by which the fresh meat business of the country was controlled. He declared that no attempt was made to fix prices and divide territory after the old packers' pool was dissolved in 1902.

He also told of the attempt of the Armour, Swift and Morris interests to combine the packing industry into a billion dollar corporation and how the plan was dropped because of the inability of its promoters to finance it.

Several other witnesses called by the government in the trial were either an employee or a former employee of one of the corporations controlled by the defendants.

The defense cross-examined every witness at length and in this way got much of its side of the case before the jury.

The jury which heard the case was composed of the following:
 J. E. Harvey, fifty years old, grocer; Wilton Center, Ill.
 Edward J. Ryan, forty-five years old, carpenter, former; Streator, Ill.
 Asa Handlar, fifty-five years old, farmer; Naperville, Ill.

A Municipal Bond Is Better Than Gold

Do You Know Why This Is True? Do You Know Why the U. S. Government Permits Its Postal Savings Banks to Accept no Securities But Three Kinds of Bonds?

Do you know that many of these Bonds acceptable by the Postal Savings Banks draw 5% and 5 1/2% interest?

In placing your money on interest—follow the example of the U. S. Government which accepts no security but Bonds.

Every Man and Woman needs to be thoroughly familiar with the one kind of investment that is absolutely safe, pays a high rate of interest, needs no looking after, and can be turned into cash at any time.

Everyone needs to know Municipal Bonds as thoroughly as they know A B C. But the usual books on Bonds are quite unintelligible to the majority of people because they are written in technical language.

We have issued a booklet that tells in plain conversational words just what Municipal Bonds are—and why it is that the U. S. Government forbids its Postal Savings Banks accepting any securities but Government Bonds, Bonds of the States and Territories of the United States, and Bonds of Certain Cities, Towns and Counties of the United States (Municipal Bonds).

The book is equally clear and plain to a school girl and to a lifelong experienced financier.

We have a copy of this book awaiting you.

Whether or not you are considering placing money on interest at present, you will highly prize the clear understanding of Municipal Bonds which this book gives—and this understanding will be worth many dollars to yourself, or to some friends whom you wish to confidently and beneficially advise.

Send for this booklet today—it is a gift from us to you. It is the only book of its kind now in print, and you will want to keep it for present reading and future reference.

FATHERS IS GIVEN A SWEEPING VOTE; CRONIN ON TICKET

In the second ward John W. Peters ran second with 97 votes. Mr. Fathers ran high with 209. Maxfield was third with 86.

Fourth Crucial Ward.
With the results of the first, second and fifth wards received in the Gazette office at nine o'clock indications were that Maxfield would be named on the ticket as he stood nearly a hundred votes ahead of Cronin in the vote for Mayor in those three wards standing as follows: Fathers, 209; Maxfield, 86; and Cronin 223.

When the third ward returns arrived at nine-thirty, Maxfield was still ahead of Cronin by 71 votes the figures standing as follows: Fathers, 1,062; Maxfield 294, and Cronin 323. Mr. Fathers ran exceptionally well in the third ward with a total of 400 votes ran second with 198, and Cummings third with 95. Hutchinson and Cronin tied for fourth in this ward with 71 votes while Miltmore ran sixth with 65 and Buchholz seventh with 53.

Third Supports Hall.
While interest in the third ward returns centered largely in the mayorial contest in which Cronin ran second, with Peters and Maxfield close third and fourth, the vote for councilmen was also indicative of the final result. Alderman Hall received a splendid endorsement here with 327 votes from his own ward. McNamara ran exceptionally well with 246 while Miltmore was the third choice with 110. Cummings was a close fourth with 99. These four men were way above any of the other candidates in this ward with the exception of Flaherty who received 87 votes. Frank L. Smith received 61 votes in the third and Connell, Evans, Comstock and Buchholz ran about even with between thirty and forty-five votes.

Heart to Heart. Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

HIS DREAM.

I remember a dream I had, I think, in my memory.

A disabled young man dreamed that he was in a great factory. The belts were off, the machinery stopped. There was rubbish on the floor, and the people stood about complaining.

Each wanted the other's job. The shipping clerks wanted to cut out the samples that were sent out in big envelopes. The girls who cut out the samples wanted to draw the designs.

The designer wanted to be doorkeeper so he could get into the plant. The man who oiled the machinery wanted to wash the windows for a change. The busy messengers wanted to run the machines. And so on.

Suddenly a strong voice called out, "Each of you back to his job!" Instantly the workers obeyed. Presently all was harmony. Each was doing his work, and doing it well.

Then as they worked, dreamed the dreamer, the spirit of love entered into them, and they began to sing at their tasks. Each of them not only did his own work, but helped his neighbor. Instead of complaining each was eager to do and to help.

The dreamer awoke. He knew it was only a dream, but the teaching was plain. If each one of us did his work in the spirit of love and cheerfulness there would be harmony and the millennium would be here.

Is it not so?
If your task is hard, nevertheless, make up your mind to do it faithfully and in the spirit of love. Dignify it by your fidelity. It is possible to learn to love even a hard task.

You can do better work? Possibly. But you cannot do the greater work successfully if you cannot do the lesser work successfully.

If you do the lesser task faithfully the time will come when you may demand and command the better job. It is your job, big or little.

If you complain of it and envy others you will not succeed and you will sow the seeds of discontent and discord in the hearts of your fellows.

Each to his job!
The harmony of things requires that you do your work, however menial, and dignify it with a song. Some other worker, drinking of your spirit and hearing your song, may take heart again.

Repeals Attack Of Death.
"Five years ago two doctors told me I had only two years to live." This startling statement was made by William Groen, Malachite, Colo. "They told me I would die with consumption. It was up to me then to try the best lung medicine and I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery. It was well I did, for today I am working and believe I owe my life to this great throat and lung cure that has cheated the grave of another victim." It's folly to suffer with coughs, colds or other throat and lung troubles now. Take the cure that's safest. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottle free at People's Drug Co.

McNamara High in First.
H. L. McNamara received a splendid endorsement from the voters of his own ward, the first. He received 189 votes against 142 to Wm. Hall his nearest competitor. Miltmore ran third with 88, Evans fourth with 87, Cummings fifth with 86 and Flaherty sixth with 85. Then the vote dropped to 48 for Daly and 42 for Schmidley. The remarkable closeness of the vote between Miltmore, Evans, Cummings and Flaherty was especially noted in this ward.

Second Ward Returns.
Second ward figures closely followed the first. In this ward the vote for councilmen Wm. Hall was the favorite with 123 votes. McNamara

JAMES A. FATHERS.

In his favor. Cronin ran second in the third and Peters was a close third. The fourth ward was the crucial ward. Here there were 614 votes cast and the work of counting was not completed until ten o'clock.

The result of the fourth which rallied well to the support of Cronin placed him on the ticket fourteen votes ahead of Maxfield. The vote in this decisive ward was as follows: Fathers 209; Cronin, 224; Maxfield, 139, and Peters, 22.

Race for Commissioners.
The race for commissioners was equally interesting as that for Mayor although it was evident from early dashes received in the Gazette office at eight o'clock that Miltmore was running strong in the first, second and fourth wards, as was also Hall, McNamara and Cummings. Hutchinson was also running strong in the second ward; Evans and Flaherty were running close in the first and Flaherty was receiving a large number of tallies in the fourth.

First complete returns were received from the fifth ward about half past eight o'clock. Here Fathers carried the ward with 123 or 14 ahead of Maxfield and 45 ahead of Cronin. Miltmore was the favorite of the fifth for commissioner receiving an endorsement of 100. Cummings and Hall tied for the second choice of the fifth ward voters for commissioner each being awarded 66 which was but one vote ahead of August Lutz.

Interest Was Intense.
The crowd began to gather at the Gazette office to hear the returns, talk over the prospects and watch the rumors and flashes. Interest was intense at the start and continued to grow with each announcement. Eager men took down the figures as they were received in an effort to forecast the final result from the early returns.

Flashes as to the vote in the fourth and fifth wards were received first. Complete returns came first from the fifth with the first a close second. The second ward quickly followed at nine o'clock and at nine-thirty the third was heard from leaving only the critical fourth.

ROCK COUNTY AHEAD IN PURE BRED STOCK

Pure Bred Stallion List in County on The Increase Steadily, According to Figures.

There are in Rock county eighteen scrub, twenty-seven grade and fifty-two pure bred stallions. Rock county ranks fourth in the list of counties showing an increased number of pure bred stallions. "Mongrel" stallions are still numerous, though in many counties the condition requires the interest of all interested horsemen.

In this connection our readers will be interested in knowing that the subject of horse breeding will receive special attention upon the program of the meetings held in connection with the special live stock train which is to visit this county during the last week in March. It is anticipated that the registration of stallions in Wisconsin will be one of the speakers, being assisted by such practical horsemen as L. P. Martin, president of the Wisconsin Live Stock Breeders' Association and David Burlo of St. Croix county.

In the past, improvement in the breeding of horses has not been as marked nor as rapid in this state as it possibly should have been. Yet during the last ten years Wisconsin has made much progress in horse breeding. For example, in 1900, according to government reports, the valuation of cattle in Wisconsin was greater than that of horses, but in 1910 this situation was reversed. The valuation of horses in the last ten years increased one hundred per cent, while the valuation of cattle increased but forty-three per cent. Further evidence of improvement has been given during the last five or six years when the proportion of grade or "mongrel" stallions in service in the state has been reduced from sixty-five to forty-eight percent. This is a very encouraging record and will very likely be quite surpassed in the future, for the profits to be realized from better horse breeding are becoming more and more apparent.

There is no reason why we cannot have community breeding of horses as well as of cattle. If one community would stick to one breed alone it would soon become famous as a horse center. In 1910 a small Holstein county in Wisconsin sold $200,000 worth of livestock. This was brought about through cooperation and organization. Five counties in this state have already organized horse breeders' clubs for mutual assistance and cooperation. When such communities become better organized and developed it will not be necessary to go to Europe in order to purchase good horses. The million dollars which have gone there in the last ten years will then go into the pockets of American farmers.

For the purpose of stimulating greater interest in live stock farming the Wisconsin Live Stock Breeders' Association will operate the "special" starting at Dodgeville, in Iowa county and traveling Grant, Iowa, Dane, Sauk, Columbia, Juneau, Monroe, Lincoln, Trempealeau, Rock, Walworth, Waukesha, Fond du Lac, and Dodge counties. Representative specimens of the Clydesdale and Percheron breeds will be carried in the live stock car for the purpose of exhibiting desirable draft types.

THE WAY OF A MAN

By EMERSON HOUGH

Copyright, 1907, by the Outing Publishing Company

"I saw that her belt was drawn tighter about a thinner waist. Her face was much thinner and browner, her eyes more sunken. The white strip of her lower neck was now brick red. I dared not ask her how she had got through the night, because she had used the blanket to blindfold the horse. She had hollowed out a place for my hips to lie more easily and pulled grasses for my bed. In all ways thoughtfulness and unselfishness had been hers. As I realized this I put my hands over my face and groined aloud. Then I felt her hand on my head.

"How did you eat?" I asked her. "You have no fire."

"Once I had a fire," she said. "I made it with flint and steel, as I saw you do. See," she added and pointed to a ring of ashes, where there were bits of twigs and other fuel.

"Now you must eat," she said. "You are like a shadow. See, I have made you broth."

"Broth?" said I. "How?"

"In your hat," she said. "My father told me how the Indians boil water with hot stones. I tried it in my own hat first, but it is gone. A hot stone burned it through." Then I noticed that she was broiled. I lay still for a time, powdering feebly, as best I could, on the courage and resource of this girl, who now no doubt had saved my life, unworthy as it seemed to me. At last I looked up to her.

"After all, I may get well," I said. "Go now to the thicket at the head of the ravine and see if there are any little cottonwood trees. Aubrey told me that the inner bark is bitter. It may not kill quinine and break the fever."

So presently she came back with my knife and her hands full of soft green bark which she had found. "It is bitter," she said, "but if I boil it it will spoil your broth." I drank of the crude preparation as best I might and ate feebly as I might at some of the more tender meat thus softened. And then she boiled the bitter bark, and I drank that water, the only medicine we might have. Alas, it was our last use of my hat as a kettle, for now it, too, gave way.

"Now," she said to me, "I must leave you for a time. I am going over to the Indian camp to see what I can find."

She put my head in the saddle for a pillow and gave me the remnant of her hat for a shade. I saw her go away, clad like an Indian woman, her long braids down her back, her head bare, her face brown, her moccasined feet slipping softly over the grasses, the metals of her leggings tinkling. My eyes followed her as long as she remained visible, and it seemed to me hours before she returned. I missed her.

She came back laughing and joyful. "See!" she exclaimed. "Many things I have found a knife, and I have found a broken kettle, and here is an owl made from a bone, and here is something which I think their women use in scraping hides." She showed me all these things, but the saw edged bone or scraping bone of the squaws used for dressing hides as she had thought.

"Now I am a squaw," she said, smiling oddly. "Yes, we are squaws now." She looked down at me at length as I lay. "Have courage, John Cowles," she said. "Get well now soon so that we may go and hunt. Our meat is nearly gone."

"But you do not despair," said I, wondering. She shook her head. "Not yet. Are we not as well off as those?" She pointed toward the old encampment of the Indians. A faint tinge came to her cheeks. "It is strange," said she, "I feel as if the world had absolutely come to an end and yet."

"It is just beginning," said I to her. "We are alone. This is the first day of the world. You are the first woman; I am the first cave man, and all the world depends on us. See," I said—perhaps still a trifle confused in my mind—"all the arts and letters of the future, all the paintings, all the money and goods of all the world, all the peace and war and all the happiness and content of the world rest with us, just us two. We are the world, you and I."

She sat thoughtful and silent for a time, a faint pink, as I said, just showing on her cheeks.

"John Cowles of Virginia," she said simply, "now tell me how shall I mend this broken kettle?"

CHAPTER XIV.

Till Death Do Part.

POOR indeed in worldly goods must be those to whom the discarded refuse of an abandoned Indian camp seems wealth. Yet such was the case with us, two representatives of the higher civilization, thus removed from that civilization by no more than a few days' span. As soon as I was able to stand we removed our little encampment to the ground lately occupied by the Indian village. We must have food, and I could not yet hunt. Here at the camp we found some bits of dried meat. We found a rigged and half hairless robe, discarded by some squaw, and to us it seemed priceless, for now we had a house by day and a bed by night. A half dozen broken lodge poles seemed riches to us. We hoarded some broken moccasins which had been thrown away.

For myself, weakened by sickness, such food as we had was of little service. I knew that I was starving and feared that she was doing little better. I looked at her that morning after we had dropped up our little canopy of hide to break the sun. Her face was clean drawn now into hard lines of muscle. Her limbs lay straight and clean before her as she sat, her hands lying in her lap as she looked out across the plains. Her eyes were still brown and clear, her figure still was that of woman. She was still sweet to look upon, but her cheeks were growing hollow. Unless presently I could arise and kill meat for her then must the world roll through the ether, unpeopled ever more.

I know not what thoughts came to her mind as we sat looking out on the pictures of the mirage which the sun was painting on the desert landscape. But finally as we gazed there seemed among these weird things one colossal triangle shape which moved, advanced, changed definitely. Now it stood in giant stature and now dwindled, but always it came nearer. We realized at last that it was a solitary buffalo bull, no doubt coming down to water at a little coulee just beyond us. I turned to look at her and saw her eyes growing fierce. She reached back for my rifle, and I arose.

"Come," I said, and so we started. We dared not use the horse in stalking our game.

I could stand, I could walk a short way, but the weight of this great rifle, sixteen pounds or more, which I had never felt before, now seemed to crush me down. She put her arm about me firmly, her face frowning and eager.

"Can you go?" she said.

"No," said I. "I cannot, but I must and I shall." I put away her arm from me, but in turn she caught up the rifle. Even for this I was still too proud.

"No," said I. "I have always carried my own weapons thus far."

"Come, then," she said, "this way!" and so caught the muzzle of the heavy barrel and walked on, leaving me the stock to support for my share of the weight. Thus we carried the great rifle between us, and so stumbled on until at length the sun grew too warm for me, and I dropped, overcome with fatigue. Patiently she waited for me, and so we two, partners, mates, a man and a woman, primitive, the first, went on little by little.

"Go," said I, motioning toward the rifle. "I am too weak. I might miss. I can get no farther."

She caught up the rifle barrel at its balancing point, looked to the lock as a man might have done, and loosed forward, eager as any man for the chase. Little, brown, sinuous, she crept rapidly away, and presently was hid where the grass grew taller in the flat beyond. The bull moved forward a little also, and I lost sight of both for what seemed to me an unconscionable time. She told me later that she crept close to the water hole and waited there for the bull to come, but that he stood back and stared ahead stupidly and would not move. She said she trembled when at last he approached, so savage was his look. Even a man might be smitten with terror at the fierce aspect of one of these animals.

But at last I heard the bitter crack of the rifle and, raising my head, I saw her spring up and then drop down again. Then, staggering a short way up the opposite slope, I saw the slow bulk of the great black bull. He turned and looked back, his head low, his eyes straight ahead. Then slowly he knelt down and so, died, with his forehead doubled under him.

She came running back to me, full of savage joy at her success, and put her arm under my shoulder and told me to come. Slowly, fast as I could, I went with her to our prey. We butchered our buffalo as Aubrey had showed me, from the backbone down, as he sat dead on his forearms, splitting the skin along the spine and laying it out for the meat to rest upon.

Again I made a fire by shooting a tow wad into such tinder as we could arrange from my coat lining, having dried this almost into flame by a burning glass I made out of a watch crystal filled with water, not in the least a weak sort of lens. She ran for fuel and for water, and now we cooked and ate, the fresh meat seeming excellent to me. Once more now we moved our camp, the girl returning for the horse and our equally belonging.

Always now we ate, haggling out the hump, ribs, the tongue, the rich back fat; so almost immediately we began to gain in strength. All the next day we worked as we could at drying the meat and taking the things we needed from the carcass. We got loose one horn, drying one side of the head in the fire. I saved carefully all the sinews of the back, knowing we might need them. Then between us we scraped at the two halves of the hide, drying it in the sun, flensing it with our little Indian hoe and presently rubbing it into brains from the head of the carcass as the hide grew drier in the sun. We were not yet skilled in tanning as the Indian women are, but we saw that now we would have a house and a bed and food, food. We broiled the ribs at our fire, boiled the broken leg bones in our little kettle. We made little bits of hide to shade our eyes, she thus binding back the long braids of her hair. We rested and were comforted. Each hour, it seemed to me, she rounded and became more beautiful, supple, young, strong—there in the beginning of the world. We were rich in these, our belongings, which we shared.

Hereto, while I was weak, exhausted and unable to reason beyond the vague factors of anxiety and dread, she had cared for me simply, as though she were a young boy and I an older man. The small details of our daily life she had assumed because she still was the stronger. Without plot or plan and simply through the stern command of necessity, our interests had been identical, our plans covered us both as one. At night for the sake of warmth we had slept closely side by side, both too weary and worn out to reason regarding that or any other thing. Once in the night I knew I felt her arm across my face, upon my head her hand, she still sleeping, and millions of miles away among the stars. I would not have waked her.

KIDNEY TROUBLE CAUSES LUMBAGO

Remarkable Story About Great Remedy

I cannot refrain from writing to say that your Swamp-Root has benefited me greatly. Last year I had a severe attack of lumbago. Was laid for a long time, and on seeing your advertisement, I determined to give it a trial. I did so and in two weeks was cured. I gave a bottle to a poor woman who could scarcely walk. She came to me in four days to tell me she was all right and most thankful. I had another attack last November and was so bad that I could not rise from my chair without assistance and could hardly face up my boots, and after taking two bottles, I am more than glad that I am well again. My age being seventy-three, I am the more convinced of the excellence of Swamp-Root.

Yours very truly,

MATERIALISM BLIGHT ON SPIRITUAL LIFE

RESPONSIBLE FOR DRIFT AWAY
FROM CHURCH DECLARES
THE REV. UPDIKE.

BROTHERHOODS DINE

Two Hundred and Fifty Members and Friends Seated at Tables—J. C.
Hooper on Coy Problem.

That a benumbing materialism which is crushing out of people their appreciation of music, poetry, and the fine arts is also blighting the spiritual life of the nation and causing a drift away from the churches, was the thought expressed by the Rev. E. G. Updike, D. D., pastor of the First Congregational church, Madison, who delivered an address on "The Man and the Church," at the second annual banquet of the Carlell Methodist church last evening. The Rev. Dr. Updike was associated on the program with Prof. J. T. Hooper, superintendent of the Institute for the Blind, who spoke on "The Church and the Boy"; District Attorney Stanley Dunwiddie, who spoke on "The Things That Keep Janesville Men From Church"; and Messrs. T. O. Howe, J. A. Raught, and A. G. Austin, who gave five minute addresses on closely allied topics. After partaking of an excellent dinner served by the ladies of the church, the Rev. E. G. Updike, of the English Lutheran church, saying grace, the presiding officer, Dr. E. E. Loomis, presented the toastmaster, Mr. M. O. Mount, who introduced the first speaker on the program, Prof. J. T. Hooper.

The Church and the Boy.
"The subject of 'The Church and the Boy,'" stated Supt. Hooper in opening his address, "is the most far-reaching and important now before the world. The question deals with how to raise the child, the greatest function mankind is called upon to perform. It deals with the church, the greatest institution the world has seen. It is concerned with the development of the boy through all his stages, infancy, and adolescence, and which shall find its fruition in a manhood that is wanting in none of the many qualities and that is imbued with a Christlike spirit of service. The problem is one that no one man can solve, but every man owes toward its solution his thought and assistance."

"The problem is not a local one. It is world-wide. My residence in a northern lumber town for a long period led me to believe that it was only in a place with its frontier crudeness, where every influence seemed to draw the boy away from the church that there was a problem of getting men and boys to attend church, but I have found it here and everywhere.

"We are losing our boys from the church at the very period when they are most susceptible to religious appeal. In the teens, the period of adolescence, when the instincts of leadership and social feeling, which make him valuable to society are budding forth, I have said that the problem of keeping the boy in the church is a general church problem, but I must make one exception. The Roman Catholic church solves the problem. What is there in its experience that can serve us as a guide?"

Roman Catholic Success.
The speaker went on to outline these reasons which were reduced to three. The first was that from the very moment that the child arrived at the age of understanding and even before, it was taught reverence for the church and given a thorough training in the doctrine of the church. Secondly, the Catholic youth was made to feel that there was something real for him in the service. There was for him a real presence in the mass, something which invited, compelled, and mystified. In the third place, the Roman Catholic church ruled from above. Its control was aristocratic and absolute and the clergy possessed dictatorial powers.

Lessons for Protestants.
"We can profit by the experience of the Roman Catholics in the solution of this problem," declared Supt. Hooper. "There is no reason why we can not teach our doctrines as vividly and as clearly as they do. Children can be taught to attend church regularly and acquire the habit of attendance. They should also be taught to regularly pay for it, and regularly contribute. If the family can not give more the contribution should be divided among the members. In this way the children acquire the instinct of ownership in the church, and when grown up will have obtained the habit of contributing."

"Another thing we can learn from our Roman Catholic brothers is to have trained teachers in our Sunday schools. We have left it for the most part to inexperienced men and women, principally women. More men are needed if the boys are to be drawn and held. If our common schools were conducted like our Sunday schools the resignations of the teachers would be asked for at the end of a week."

"Our religion can be made more vital and real. The boy must be made to feel that his church is a force in the community, that it is accomplishing things, that it is back of every movement for the public good, and that its members will fight fearlessly every institution that is working for the downfall of boys."

A Boy's Religion.
"Clergymen should be as well taught in the management of boys as in the writing of sermons. They and all others, to whom is entrusted the leadership of boys, should understand boy nature, how it passes through the stages of savagery, barbarism, civility and into civilization. Their religion must be genuine. No one is quicker than a boy to detect a sham. The essence of the solution is to keep in mind that the church is for the boy, and not the boy for the church. It is the end, not the means. I have seen more than one movement for interesting boys in the church which has failed because this truth was not kept in mind. The boys found out and dropped out."

Must Be Positive
The speaker went on to outline the essentials of a boy's religion. "It must not be positive and negative, because the boy is repelled by a mere program of 'don't's.' He wants to do something that will arouse enthusiasm. A boy's religion is idealistic. Nothing is too great for him to undertake. The life and example of Christ can be made to appeal strongly to him. His religion is also social. He wishes to associate himself with others and he can be reached through organization. The success of such organizations as the Boy Scouts affirms this and the church can profit by its example. It is a hero-worship and the spiritual heroes can be made his possession."

Why Men Do Not Attend Church.
The reasons set forth by District Attorney Dunwiddie on "Why Janesville Men Do Not Attend Church," were the prevalent social unrest and the change in the idea of rest. In ancient days the occupation of men was principally pastoral; labor was of a physical nature and people took their rest in mental diversion. This condition also held in early days in New England. The Sunday meetings offered the kind of rest that was demanded and the meeting houses were the principal centers of social intercourse. But conditions have changed. People come into contact with one another so much during the week that the social incentive of the Sunday meeting has ceased, and mental work has so taken the place of physical labor, that people prefer to relax by taking physical exercise.

Mr. Dunwiddie had addressed a large number of men on the subject of church attendance. Most of them replied in a tone of apology, none had fault to find with the teachings of the church. Almost all said they would rather put off around home on Sunday than go to church.

The Church For Use.
That the church was for use rather than for ornament was one of the thoughts brought forth in a few remarks made by Mr. T. O. Howe on the subject of church attendance. He said that the popular belief that crowds were obtained with no effort for such things as prize fights, cock fights and other public gatherings of that nature was unjustified. The promoters had to work hard to get an attendance and the church shared in the problem. He believed that it was possible to make the church services so attractive that all the pews could be filled.

Should Visit Factories.
The clergymen of Janesville should visit the workmen of their congregations in the factories where they are employed, said J. T. Raught, manufacturers and superintendents would be glad to have them do so. Pastors seldom came in contact with these men because they were usually at work when they called at their homes. The laboring man was more or less prejudiced against the church, but he thought that would disappear when he became better acquainted with it.

The Country Problem.
Difficulty in maintaining standards of church attendance was experienced in the country as well as in the city, according to A. G. Austin. There were three main reasons for the decline. One was the lessening sense of duty and tendency to act according to inclination, another the unrest that was causing a migration cityward and an influx of foreigners, and last the want of provisions for accommodating the country people.

Dr. Updike's Address.
There were certain general conditions responsible for the regular problems now faced by the church and touched upon in the preceding addresses was the belief of the Rev. Dr. Updike who gave the last talk on the program. These were expressed in a certain materialism which was blighting art, music and poetry as well as the spiritual life. People seemed for some ill-defined reason to be losing their appreciation of these things. "Why do not men's hearts and minds respond. Men stay away from musical entertainments as they do from church. Poets seem to have disappeared, perhaps because people do not care to read poetry. The demand for orators in poor and lawyers look with contempt upon a member of their profession who can boast of no other qualification. There must be some relation between the demand and the supply."

"Every truth has its own appropriate evidence. Each art and science has its own appeal. Religion has its appeal. Its vital things are experiences, not theological or doctrinal, or even the written word. They but express the reality that was in the soul and religion must reach the heart through the same channels that reached their formulators."

"We say we do not have the time to meditate or think or go to church. What right have we to so engross ourselves with business cares that we have no time left for religion, to devote to the upbuilding of our home life, or to give to our God?"

"Many men have gone out from the church to do good work for humanity in other institutions, but these institutions can not take the place of the church. I sometimes think the church should undertake nothing that it can get another agency to do. It has enough to do as the fountain of inspiration and custodian of the gospel truths. After all there is no subject of such absorbing and enduring interest as religion. Could any man hold an audience Sunday after Sunday with talk on any other subject?"

"The boy problem can not be turned over to women. The boy will not long respect an institution with which his father is not identified. It is as much a man's job."

For Closed Theatres.
At the close of Dr. Updike's address the Rev. J. C. Hazen made the motion that the assembly declare itself on the question of opening the theatres on Sunday. A unanimous vote was cast against Sunday opening. The meeting was closed with a vote of thanks to the speakers of the evening. The Lotus male quartette sang two selections which were heartily enjoyed.

Modesty.
A just and reasonable modesty does not only recommend obedience, but sets off very great talent which a man can be possessed of. It heightens all the virtues which it accompanies; like the shades in paintings, it raises and rounds every figure, and makes the colors more beautiful, though not so glaring as they would be without it.—Addison.

At The Theatre

"ROSALIND AT REDGATE."

"The prettiest play of the century," is the way the press agent describes "Rosalind at Red Gate," the dramatization of Meredith Nicholson's most popular novel, which comes to the Myers Theatre on Thursday, March 22, and if words of some of the most prominent dramatic critics we have are to be relied upon, the purveyor of publicity has good cause to so call his play.

Mr. Nicholson, in this play, has given us one of the most charming characters the stage has known. She is a gentle old maiden lady whose life has been given to others.

In a scene with Larry she says: "Oh, Larry Donovan, when you are an old as I am, you will know how hard life would be for us, if we didn't have the sunset and music to fill our last years as we sit in the long twilight with folded hands, waiting for the ships that have never come or have sunk in the storms of life." This surely is a scene that Mr. Nicholson is also a poet.

HOWE'S TRAVEL FESTIVAL.

As an illustration of almost everything one might encounter on a journey around the world, Lyman H. Howe's new program for the Myers Theatre, Tuesday and Wednesday, March 26 and 27, matinee 27, promises to surpass all expectations. His "Travel Festival" not only satisfies the lover of travel, but is a real uplift. One leaves the theatre with an even broader outlook on life in general.

Mr. Howe inserts that one feature in particular of the new program far surpasses any scenes of a similar nature that he has ever presented. It shows the struggle of three fearless guides to the dizzy heights of the Alps amid a severe snowstorm. The ascent to the "roof of the world" starts with a perpendicular ride in a car of the Cog Wheel Railway of Montreux and after reaching the top platform of this unique mountain elevator the spectators obtain a sweeping view of the Rhone Valley. Then another strange journey is taken in a car of the Wetterhorn Suspension Railway which takes the spectator to one of the lower Alpine peaks at the foot of which the Oltern Glacier glaciates with ice and snow. With danger of death at every step the camera follows the climb to the higher points from which the Howe travelers look down upon a vast rolling sea of clouds far below.

The prestige attained by Mr. Howe's exhibition was officially recognized in a very complimentary way by the U. S. Government. One of the objects of the great naval review in New York Harbor last November, was to arouse greater pride and patriotism in our "new navy." Believing that this should not be confined only to actual spectators of the review, the Secretary of the Navy, Mr. George von L. Meyer, was anxious that the country at large should benefit by the demonstration. He became convinced that no one uses the power that lies in animated photography to such great advantage as does Mr. Howe. Acting on this conviction, he granted Mr. Howe's camera men the very exclusive privilege of accompanying him on the U. S. S. Dolphin so that the three million "Howe travelers" throughout America might see the greatest naval review in American history at even closer range than the spectators that lined the banks or crowded excursion boats. The intimate scenes obtained from the deck of the Dolphin as the ship steamed past miles and miles of the very flower of the U. S. Navy on the tour of inspection, furnished a lesson of the efficiency of men, guns and machinery of our mighty war vessels that is of incalculable value. The combined power of the ships, represented gives the beholder a fresh, vivid and entirely new conception of our country's resources and power. The ships, in their holiday dress, present a scene that is profoundly impressive, and this is further intensified at the thrilling climax when the stately procession moves at full speed out to sea in a driving gale and at the same time salutes directly in front of Mr. Howe's camera.

A pictorial tour through Italy, the land of history and romance; the wonders of the Grand River Canon, Colorado, and the latest mode of locomotion through water and air by means of the hydroplane, are only a few of the many other features of interest to be presented.

THE story of "THE NOTORIOUS POLLY MANSFELDT" is a slice of life—the life that a great many people think they would like to live, and which some of them do live, in the end to regret such an existence.

Polly Mansfeldt had beauty, and riches, and adoration, and could summon to her beck and call everything the world had to offer. Yet she counted her life a failure.

Polly lived and loved and all but died, that her whimsical mind might meet with no interference. What she willed was hers; what she wanted was won, except the solace of the after-years, though possibly some readers may conclude that Polly was the woman who had everything.

LLOYD OSBOURNE has never written so fine a novel, nor one so true to life. Be sure to read the opening instalment in THE CAVALIER this week.

Clarence L. Cullen's Famous Slang Stories Start This Week

The editor of THE CAVALIER has closed a deal with Clarence L. Cullen to write a series under the title "STORIES OF THE SLANGERS." The first one makes its appearance this week under the title "THE OLD HEAD-QUARTERS SLEUTH." Clarence L. Cullen did the slang stuff in the New York Sunday Sun for fifteen years, and has worked on all the newspapers in the Western hemisphere, to say nothing of spending six years before the mast, mainly among the South Pacific islands, with "a crackat the army stuff," as he puts it, plus a vast experience in every big American city where anything is doing at all.

In Cullen's new stories there is a laugh in every line, a new phrase in every paragraph, and a jolt at the finish.
